create an experience that matches your lifestyle.

What's your lifestyle? Is it elegant entertaining? How about hosting the big game? Maybe it's watching movies with the family? Whatever your entertainment preference, one thing is for sure, everyone needs down time. And if you make room for relaxation in your life, you're actually more likely to take the opportunity to unwind.

Your home represents your personal style and we'd like to invite you to transform your leisure space into something extraordinary. At Audio Impact, we view the home as a canvas, and the homeowner as the artist. Our comprehensive collection of home entertainment components work together to bring out the personality and life of your home. We call it sensible luxury that transforms entertainment into an experience.

How do you transform your leisure space into something extraordinary? It's easier than you think. From a simple upgrade, to creating the home theatre of your dreams, Audio Impact can help you get there. We understand that great relationships begin and end with performance. That's why we have aligned ourselves with only the top manufacturers. We understand that better products, combined with a better process, delivers a better result.

Typically, implementing a home audio/video vision is uncharted territory to most customers. Our experienced team takes pride in guiding each vision through the planning process. Our technical design specialists will guide you to determine specifications and provide innovative design solutions. We concentrate on customer needs, and focus on quality, while managing every detail to ensure your project runs smoothly, and within budget.

The first step to designing a successful leisure space is to listen. Every customer has unique needs. It's our responsibility to formulate a plan based on those needs. A dedicated technical design specialist will partner with you, your architect, or interior designer to guide you through each step of the custom design process. They'll align the latest technologies to complement your entertainment lifestyle without sacrificing your decor.

We believe the key to creating the ideal leisure space begins with world class audio, video and home theater components - including many you won't find at your local electronics store. Our custom design solution integrates these collective components to harmonize in a well designed system.

Once the ideal system is ready to be installed, our installation experts complete the equation with meticulous craftsmanship - at every level. Audio Impact fuses personal hands-on service with over twenty-years experience. With a firm foundation as a licensed service provider and our knowledge of current audio/video technology, Audio Impact simplifies your needs where others complicate them. Audio Impact views your home or business as a complete entity and offers solutions to all of your wiring and wireless needs, design, implementation and service.
